R2. By January 30, 2026, the Sonoma County Board of Supervisors (BOS) and each of the nine city councils will agree to create an ongoing Affordable Housing Collaborative, which includes jurisdiction leaders, community members, grass roots organizations and housing advocates, who will share both positive and negative experiences and identify "best practices."

As a state-designated Pro-Housing city, Petaluma supports a collaborative approach between the County of Sonoma and its nine cities to advance countywide housing goals, including the potential creation of an Affordable Housing Collaborative. This effort would build on existing regional work, such as the Napa-Sonoma Collaborative, which convened jurisdictions across both counties to address housing production challenges, as well as the ongoing efforts of advocacy organizations such as Generation Housing. These initiatives demonstrate the value of cross-jurisdictional cooperation in creating momentum toward addressing housing affordability. Affordable housing remains a top priority for the Petaluma City Council and the community. The City has taken concrete steps to support this priority, including reducing fees for affordable housing applications and, most recently, establishing a new long-term loan program to help affordable housing developers leverage additional state and federal funding.
